December 27, 1972

(Champaklal hands Satprem the French and English texts of the Christmas message so Mother can put it in her own handwriting.)

(Satprem:) You've put:

“We want to show to the world that man can become a true servitor of the Divine. Who will collaborate in all sincerity?”

(Champaklal, in English:) Mother, shall I give you paper? Mother will write now? To send to Press?

(Satprem:) Is it necessary?

But I can't write....

(Champaklal is upset)

... I'd better write it.

(Mother spends twenty minutes copying the message by hand, then she holds out her hands to Satprem and plunges in)